Handout for Partner A

Read these messages over the radio to Partner B so they can take notes on them. Speak slowly and clearly and use good radio etiquette. Please try to make it easy for them!

1. A mass of algae is growing in the lake. No action is required at this time.

2. Message to Ariel Smith. Information is needed by Raven. Who is the person who works at the Rec Center.

3. A massive hail storm is hitting the university. Take cover at Leuschner Observatory at 4137A Barrow Lane.

4. There was a train delay at 12th Street. Now there is another delay at 19th Street, too, due to two trains with stuck doors.

5. We are on the lookout for a big blue box addressed to Pat Jones. It is a missing shipment of Azithromycin.

Radio Etiquette Reminders

- Start a conversation with the other person/group's name, then your own.
- Say one concise thing per transmission.
- End transmissions with "Over." That tells the other party you expect a response.
- Say "Copy" if you heard and understood the transmission.

NATO Phonetic Alphabet

Alfa	Golf	Mike	Sierra	Yankee
Bravo	Hotel	November	Tango	Zulu
Charlie	India	Oscar	Uniform
Delta	Juliett	Papa	Victor
Echo	Kilo	Quebec	Whiskey
Foxtrot	Lima	Romeo	X-ray

Note the most important information from the messages you heard below:

Handout Partner B

Read these messages over the radio to Partner B so they can take notes on them. Speak slowly and clearly and use good radio etiquette. Please try to make it easy for them!

1. A sink hole has split Sorkin Park in half. All civilians should stay away.

2. Message to the City Operations Manager. There is an urgent situation in the family. You are coming home?

3. There is a 10-minute delay on the bridge. For updates contact latest-info@bridge_traffic.org.

4. The local community college is open after being closed before, for four wild boars that were loose on campus. Classes are resuming now.

5. The county is warning that dihydrogen monoxide has spilled into the lake. Residents are advised to wear protective gear.

Radio Etiquette Reminders

- Start a conversation with the other person/group's name, then your own.
- Say one concise thing per transmission.
- End transmissions with "Over." That tells the other party you expect a response.
- Say "Copy" if you heard and understood the transmission.

NATO Phonetic Alphabet

Alfa	Golf	Mike	Sierra	Yankee
Bravo	Hotel	November	Tango	Zulu
Charlie	India	Oscar	Uniform
Delta	Juliett	Papa	Victor
Echo	Kilo	Quebec	Whiskey
Foxtrot	Lima	Romeo	X-ray

Note the most important information from the messages you heard below: